Somewhere in Time, Unlimited, (SITU) is a social and educational organization in which members and guests participate at their own risk. Activities, such as dancing or games, involve physical movement which can result in injury. Often, food is prepared in home kitchens. Board members are volunteers who serve without compensation. SITU has no assets beyond a modest bank account. Anyone who participates in events organized by SITU members does so accepting responsibility for their own well being and holds board members and event producers harmless for any injury or accident that may occur.

Check box if you have read and agree to the boxed statement above.
